May 1945

Dear Jim,--

How about crawling out of your fat hole long enough to look at the 1945 Excalibur, which five of the senior classes are dedicating to you. This book is for you, just as the minute man, flags and the hopes and plans of the student body and faculty are for you. When you walked out of the double glass doors of Crown Point High School, long ago, our thoughts and plans followed you, falling into steps to the cadence of your boots--setting the rhythm of our lives. Oh yes, we have been out of step many times marching left when we should have marched right, or skipping a beat that seemed unimportant, but though we have looked in other directions, we have not lost sight of our ultimate goal.

1 9 4 5 Excalibur

Our hopes for your future pertain to those institutions that will greatly influence your post-war living conditions. salient among these is the school. Second in importance to return is that your home town remain fundamentally the same, but with some proof of advancement. Together, our school board and faculty are blue-printing the school of tomorrow, which, based on peace, will be more modern, more efficient, and with a greater contribution toward an educated nation.

Of our teachers, we can speak only in superlatives --- as instructors, they are the finest; as friends they are the best.

OUR SCHOOL OF TOMORROW

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Erwin acts as a better-than-the-original Mr. Anthony to the puzzled students of Crown Point High. His variety of jobs and the many miles that he has covered makes him an ideal advisor.

Our school board! Mr. Walter McLean, treasurer; Mr. Lowell C. Held, secretary; Mr. A. T. Lindley, superintendent of schools, and Dr. C. R. Pettibone, president.

SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. Lindley

Our office "Big Three," Mr. Erwin, Miss Blackstone, and Mr. Lindley, really cooperate to keep things running smoothly. Miss Blackstone's ability to type, answer the telephone, and dash down the hall in search of a student, all at the same time should reach Mr. Ripley's ears any day now. Mr. Erwin is another one for doing about a thousand jobs at the same time, and yet he manages to concentrate on each problem remarkably well. Mr. Lindley takes care of the business at hand and still has time to work with the school board on plans for the improvement of our post-war school.

Mr. Erwin

and

Miss Blackstone

Miss Lauterbur: English and Shorthand become important and living subjects under the instruction of Miss Lauterbur. She is pictured with her hobby, which is a collection of stage bills.

Miss Stoops: Knowledge of library and interest in Freshman English have reached a maximum under Miss Stoops. Her hobby seems to be phonograph records.

Mrs. Cochran: With enthusiasm and vigor Mrs. Cochran portrays the facts of Latin, Chemistry, and high school mathematics. South Pacific souvenirs and Mr. Cochran apparently are her favorite pastimes.

Miss Rickenbaugh: Not only is Miss Rickenbaugh a competent teacher of shorthand, general business, and typing, but she also takes times to transport athletes to various games.

Mr. Ruby: Not only is Mr. Ruby the coach, but he is an excellent example for the students. Many boys will live a healthy life because Mr. Ruby teaches the rules of health so well that these rules become a part of those students who study this subject.

Miss Greenberg: Miss Greenberg came to our school the second semester of this year. She taught English to the freshmen, and civics to the seniors, sponsored the student council, and the National Honor Society. She is shown with her hobby of pictures of model homes.

Mrs. Seamonson: Important characters of history march in pomp and power; outstanding events paraded before the eyes of the students, and patriotism reigns in Mrs. Seamonson's history classes.

Mr. Watson: Mr. Watson loves Physics and anyone who studies his favorite subject. He believes that this is a very important part of the high school education, and teaches it with characteristic vigor and thoroughness.

Mr. Hindle :

Mr. Hindle can well be proud of his agriculture work, for most of the boys taught in his classes will do this important work after graduating. Mr. Hindle also teaches Biology.

Mr. Church :

Industrial arts is a useful subject for all. Some may think of this study as a course for boys only; but Mr. Church has both boys and girls enjoying this important work.

Mr. Hale :

Mr. Hale teaches mechanically minded students the many functions of machine shop.

Mr. Ready :

All those who have heard our band, directed by Mr. Ready, are thrilled at the splendid artistry exhibited. Joy is supreme when the Crown Point High School band plays.

Mrs. Thomas :

Students of our school shall never forget the pleasant experiences of participating in choral activities under the direction of Mrs. Thomas. Mrs. Thomas has the ability to produce excellent singing groups.

Miss Mauck: "Oh, for a thousand tongues to tell" the value of English, speech, debate, and dramatics.

Miss Albright: If the way to the heart is through the stomach, Miss Albright has found many hearts. Delicious meals, at a reasonable cost, for teachers and students are prepared daily by Miss Albright and the cafeteria classes.

Miss Wagner: Pictures that hang on memory's walls are the ones which Miss Wagner and the class like to paint.

Mrs. Mracek: Many students have found a genuine friend and counselor in Mrs. Mracek. She is always willing to help any student in the guidance toward a successful life.

Mrs. Christopherson: Mrs. Christopherson taught English, civics, sponsored the student council and directed the social hour at noon. Her interest in young people, and love for her subjects gained for her a host of friends.

Mrs. King: Mrs. King's practical experiences in the business world aid her greatly in teaching shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping for the business of life.

By the concerted effort of all the classes, divergent interests have been partially submerged in favor of a main objective. Although proms, and yearbooks, and class dances are still an important phase of our school life, they are maintained on a less spectacular basis.

If you could come back on furlough and slip into the back seat, you might hear a serious discussion on today's problems; however, we, like you, have not lost our love of fun ---

For Liberty and Peace on Earth

Our senior class officers, Treasurer Gayle Niksch, Secretary Eugene Jackson, President Ruth Graper, and Vice-President Bob Lennertz have done a superlative job this year and we're very grateful to them. They seem to make a great leadership team which may be attributed to their high scholastic ratings and their likeable personalities.

The Seniors started the year off with the presentation of "The Great Big Doorstep." After the play, of course, came the dance sponsored by the Seniors. The dance that really roused the whole student body, however, was the Sadie Hawkins Day Dance. The original advertisement that put it over was the signs made by members of the senior class. Practically every male in school was draped with a sign denoting to whom he belonged for the dance. Hill-billy music lured many onto the dance floor to square dance between the popular tunes of the juke box. Janice Muzzall was crowned queen of the dance after some hard competition from the other candidates. Votes were a penny each. The annual Little-4 Hop, consisting of Lowell, Hobart, Griffith, and Crown Point was held in Crown Point this year, and the seniors worked busily on the decorations. Most of these activities, of course, helped to finance this grand and glorious year-book.

Since quite a few of this year's graduating class were called to the armed services, the small roll that the seniors started their year with was made even smaller. This, however, did not prevent the eager participation of the class in all school events. During the year, under the guidance and with the inspiration of Miss Mauck and Mrs. Seamonson, Seniors rounded out their programs of activities by participating in football, basketball, and track events.

In contrast to rules usually set up by seniors either at the beginning or at the end of the school year, this year's class did away with the usual initiating of the freshmen. Seniors put themselves on record as being the first class not to further bewilder the freshmen by initiating them.

The end of the year brought added activities on the part of the seniors. Now came one of the most enjoyable phases of high school life, the Prom, and one of the most serious phases of school life, Baccalaureate and the Commencement exercises.

The smiling faces of these four people belong to the junior leaders who led their class to achievement during the year. They are: Vice President Dick Platt, Secretary Bob Cleveland, Treasurer Betty Lisius, and President Carl Steuer. These four performed ably the many tasks given them.

The class of '46 did not become interested in sponsoring their own activities the first half of the year, but contented themselves with studying hard and engaging in school activities and those events sponsored by other classes. Active participation was given to all football and basketball games, Friday night dances, and other entertainment. One could be sure that the presence of the junior class members at school affairs meant added interest, pep, and fun. Not to be outdone by members of other classes, the peppy juniors entered wholeheartedly into all of the clubs and organizations of the school, gaining coveted places on the Honor Roll each six weeks, and giving service to their school by assisting in the library, shop, and as hall monitors. In ways such as these,

First: C. Agnew, J. Almy, P. Anderson, A. Batterman, R. Benson, B. Bleiweiss, B. Carroll. Second: V. Carter, H. Claussen, B. Cleveland, J. Dance, H. Donnelly, R. Einspar, B. Ensweiler. Third: D. Farster, R. Fate, J. Fawley, A. Ferrero, M. Fiegle, W. Fuchs, B. Fuerst.

First: J. Fulk, B. Glassford, M. Glinski, L. Greman, L. Grimes, D. Grubbe, E. Gudenschwager. Second: L. Gumbiner, H. Habenicht, G. Hall, C. Hays, D. Hedloff, R. Hegan, J. Hobson. Third: P. Hofferber, C. Holmquist, A. Howe, J. Hudson, P. Hurst, J. Jenkins, D. Johnson.

they showed that they were willing and able to accept any responsibilities that would aid the faculty and the student body.

Of all phases of school life, the juniors were most outstanding in the field of athletics. It is an interesting fact, too, to note that when cheerleaders were selected in the fall of the school year, three were chosen from the entire school and all three were from the junior class.

On December 30, activities of this class began with a dance held after the Little Five Conference Tourney. Due to hard work in making preparations for this end-of-the-year celebration, the dance was a fitting climax to the first semester's work.

First: E. Kach, D. Kahldahl, D. Keiser, B. Kruger, J. Kubal, A. Lauerman, K. Letterer. Second: B. Little, B. Lisius, D. Lewis, J. Lottes, H. Lundgren, D. McFarland, C. Manders. Third: J. Mikuta, E. Moore, D. Muzzall, I. Nagy, P. Neises, J. Palmer, R. Petrovitch.

First: B. Pittman, B. Pitts, P. Plaster, D. Platt, G. Poisel, R. Rascha, R. Richards. Second: E. Rothschild, L. Rouhselange, B. Ruble, J. Rudolph, R. Ruehl, B. Ruzek, N. Satman. Third: C. Scheldt, D. Schlobohn, C. Schoenbeck, E. Schultz, W. Sipe, L. Smith, P. Smith.

During the second semester, much of the time of the class was taken up with practice and plans for the junior play, "And Came The Spring," presented April 13. The play was a huge success, and well worth the hard work and worries of planning it

After the play came the junior's second dance which increased the treasury to help defray expenses of the Prom. The Juniors may be proud of the accomplishments they have made throughout the year, and may know that their efforts, directed by Miss Albright, Miss Lauterbur, and Mrs. Cochran were well worth their while.

First: G. Snip, C. Steuer, E. Strong, C. Young, R. Sutton, M. Swanson, I. Tauck. Second: J. Taylor, W. Zurbriggen, J. Westphal, R. Whitehead, S. Williams, C. Wineland, D. Wise. Third: B. Wright, P. Wright.

SOPHOMORES

Lowell Baker, class president, was chosen to lead the Sophs to victory. Assisting him were Don Hoffman, vice president; Sue Heinze, secretary, and Bill Larson, treasurer.

The "Solid Sophomores," under the leadership of Lowell Baker proved that they had the makings of a good class during the school year of 1944-45.

The Sophs started the year by sponsoring a dance after the Lowell basketball game, and further showed their school spirit by donating $10 for the repair of school desks. A spring carnival ended their busy year.

First: William Abraham, Lois Aiken, Louise Amati, Norman Ashcraft, Betty Blakeman, Lowell Baker, Madeline Ballas, Willard Barker, Billy Beal. Second: Junice Benake, Elizabeth Biegel, Russel Blakeman, Verna Blakeman, Betty Boesel, Aloyce Bouressa, Cora Mae Braham, Bob Brannon, Jean Brodie. Third: Pat Brown, Ray Bull, Betty Campbell, Charles Campbell, Etuel Claus, Petie Crawford, Harold Daniels, Betty Dannehl, Ramon Decrow.

First: Eugene Deforrest, Leroy Dewar, Tommy Dickens, Lynn Dillabaugh, Bill Dunn, Jane Engle, Elsie Dentenman, Clyde Fauser, Mary Fields. Second: Ruth Fisher, Margaret Hindle, Margaret Fuchs, Evelyn Goff, Ross Graiber, Minnie Gramenz, Doris Craper, Maryann Hanlon, Leonard Hays. Third: Donald Hein, Lavern Hein, Suzanne Heinze, John Held, Harold Henderson, Bob Henley, Betty Hill, Billie Hills.

First: Lewis Hobson, Donald Hoffman, Allan Holtz, Joan Hooseline, Marvin Horine, Betty Horner, Jeanette Hudson, Pauline Irons, Anna Jacobsma. Second: Lillian Jaeger, Donald Jenkins, Delores Johnson, Harvey Johnson, Mary Keiser, Orville Kersey, Samuel Kinne, Virgadele Kinne, Carol Kistler. Third: Emery Knopi, Vivian Kolar, Richard Kors, Charles Kuehl, Carol Lacroix, Dale Lamphier, Jeanette Lanting, Bill Larson, Anita Lewis.

First: Patricia Lindzy, Donald Lottes, Eugene Lottes, Mary Lou Lowe, Etta Mcfadden, Annabelle Mathews, Herbert Maxwell, Vivian Meeker. Second: Donald Melcher, Howard Miller, Allan Murray, Irving Newer, Pat O'Halloran, Mary Oman, Henry Osika, Phyllis Patte, Bill Pelton, Arthur Piper. Third: Betty Pitman, Kenneth Post, Donald Randolph, Marjorie Ready, Cheryl Reilly, Richard Ridder, John Rohrback, Bob Satnan, Alfred Scheisser.

First: Mildred Schleuter, Evelyn Schultz, Joe Schneider, Jimmie Scott, Paul Seegers, Phyllis Seramur, Mary Shields, Frances Stephenson, Raymond Strong. Second: Henry Suess, Deloris Theilen, Joe Tutza, Lillian Vartanian, Alda Vellutini, Marilyn Waarick, Robert Wedge, Carolyn Wendell, Rhoda Wilcox. Third: Junior Wood.

EAGER BEAVER FRESHIES

The freshmen entered high school with a total enrollment of 150. They were bewildered and shy, and their first week brought forth many perplexing occurrences. Having settled down, they elected their class officers, and began to take part in major activities. Many opportunities were presented to them during the year, and the majority of them were eager to learn. It was with this philosophy in mind and a few "pep talks," that the class of '48" survived the first grading period, and so on through the year.

Their first important project was a dance held after the band concert on April 20. As "rookies" they enjoyed the privilege of participating in band, debate, speech, football, basketball, track, bond sales, chorus, and the athletic carnival.

The world is big and complex to these freshmen, who are just starting out on a new adventure. In a few short years they must understand it and learn to handle it. They must find a place, and the work to which they will devote their lives. The citizens have provided this high school to help them find a way to make their potentialities more profitable to themselves and to their country. Crown Point believes they are keen enough to find that way, and follow it.

--- Just as stage fright, grease paint, and forgotten lines are the all important ingredients in making the junior play a success, a raced deadline, and a belated press add flavor to the weekly edition of the Inklings.

The winter choral concert of December 7, 1941 ushered in the war, and the spring concert of May 4, 1945 heralded the news of victory in Europe.

Good fellowship, blended with solemnity, have made the past year
a living memory:

MUCH TO DO, BUT LITTLE TIME TO DO IT!

SENIOR PLAY

Mrs. Crochet and the Commodore talk excitedly to Uncle Dewey, whom they think has brought them the $60 with which to buy a lovely house.

The twins, Evvie and Topal eagerly examine the things which Uncle Dewey has brought them.

"THE GREAT BIG DOORSTEP"

Mr. Tobin listens enchantedly while the romantic little sister Evvie dramatically tells him the story of "Evangeline" and her search for her lost lover.

JUNIOR PLAY

Courtney Manders, Clarice Winland, and Carl Steuer try out for the Junior Play.

The play was presented on April 13, with Courtney Manders playing the Gremelin who brought about all the humorous complications.

"THEN CAME THE SPRING"

More Juniors apply their talent at acting in hopes of capturing a part in the play given April 13. Bob Cleveland, Janice Almy, Bob Pittman, Irmagard Tauck, and Courtney Manders use a group scene in their efforts to convince Miss Mauck that she needs them in "And Came The Spring."

VARSDTY DEBATORS: Bill Ready, armed with data; Pat Pence, eloquent; Bol Lennertz, diligent in research; Muriel Tadman, collector of quotes; Ruth Graper, forceful with facts.

* * * *

PANEL: Eugene Jackson, Bill Smead, Jack Akey, Courtney Manders, Phyllis Dillabaugh, Hugh Maxwell, and Bob Schmal.

* * * *

Maryann Cottingham and Frannie Hender-long lay the cards on the table.

N.F.L. members, led by Pat Pence, with 548 points, journey to many tournaments to compete for honors. Mr. Erwin, "pilot at the wheel," and Miss Mauck coach, accompany the "gang."

Top to Bottom: Ruth Graper, Bob Lennertz, Pat Pence, Chiquita Wilcox, Bob Dittmer, and Rosemary Hoffman.

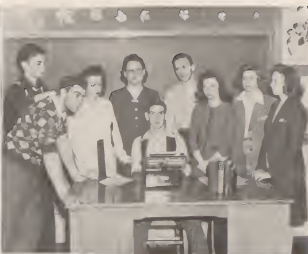

BOOKWORMS

LIBRARIANS: Ruth Mikuta, Wuanita Doty, Rosemary Hoffman, Carol Kistler, Miss Stoops, sponsor, Gene Kubal, and Betty Lou Fuerst. These are the librarians who have assisted students throughout the year in finding reference books, classics, and good reading material.

The F.F.A. is composed of boys who are interested in the agricultural field. Under Mr. Hindle, these boys study the more scientific methods of advanced farming, thus becoming familiar with problems which they will have to meet as farmers of America.

JOURNALISM STAFF

A CAPELLA CHOIR

The A Cappella choir rehearsals began with the second semester of school. Several new members replaced the seniors of last year and all rehearsals were held outside of school hours. On March 16 the annual spring concert was presented in the First Presbyterian Church. The program consisted of numbers by the choir, the triple trio, boys' ensemble and the "a cappellets." Ruth Adkins sang a solo, and the closing group by the choir was sung with organ accompaniment. The choir presented this program again for the high school assembly in the church.

That rumbling you hear in the distance isn't the reverberation of the Navy's big guns; it is really the crowd cheering for the Brown Tint Superdogs as they head down the field for another touchdown. With school spirit, peppy cheerleaders, and a bit of luck to back them, our athletes add wins to their record like an American ace adds enemy emblems to the fuselage of his P-38.

In the near future the field will replace the flight deck and the crew will be the fighting element, motivated by the same force of unity that now guides our servicemen.

THEY'RE STILL TOUGH, JIM

Handicapped by a lack of players, due to the war, and by frequent injuries to athletes, the Crown Point football team won three victories and suffered five defeats.

In August, when fall practice was begun sixty-three boys answered the call for players. From this rough beginning the coach molded a tough, hard-hitting eleven. Not without effort was this accomplished. Working without an assistant coach, Mr. Ruby spent many hours each day working with his plans and players. James Bollman, a public spirited citizen of the town, acted as the coach's only adult assistant, giving freely of his time and talent to help develop a team.

When September Eighth rolled around a seasoned team ran onto the field instead of the disorganized group of boys which had reported some weeks before. The hard-fighting men in red and white drove through eight games this year. The season was terminated by a banquet at the community building sponsored by the Civic Club.

All due credit should be given to the loyal citizens who drove athletes to the games and to the student managers who worked hours each day, longer than the players themselves, preparing for the games and keeping the players and their equipment in good condition. These are the people who lighten the load of the coach and make his duties pleasant ones.

BOB SCHMAL—Never a high scorer, Bob was a consistent guard and a clever ball-handler.

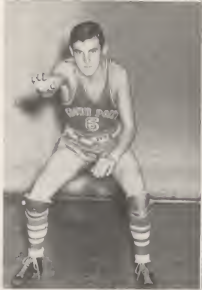

DON MATHEWS—A high scorer and a reliable floor player; Don made his forward position one dreaded by his opponents.

DICK REILLY—Although forced to leave the game in mid-year because of an injury, Dick turned in a good game at forward.

DON COWAN—Unable to play in the early part of the year because of a football injury, Don played good basketball as a reserve forward.

DICK PLATT—A junior this year, Dick played center in a manner that earned him a regular berth on the team.

BILL SMEAD—A fast, clever ball-player, Bill did not play regularly but was always in the game to score a few points when they were needed most.

BOB KERR—Playing only the first of the season, Bob saw some action as a reserve center.

ALLEN WHITEHEAD—Allen was the invaluable sixth man of our ball team until after the holiday tourney when he joined the Navy.

BOB CLEVELAND—A will to win and plenty of ability made Bob a serve guard who really proved his worth.

CARL STEUER—A guard, Carl was always in there pitching when one of the more regular players was called to the bench.

RAY BULL—Although not playing regularly at the first or last of the season, Ray played good ball at forward.

BUD BLEIWEISS—Bud was one of the high scorers who made our team what it was.

INTRAMURALS

Intramural basketball provided amusement for many boys during the winter noon hours. League and tournament competition were held.

SECOND TEAM

Although the Crown Point second team won few games this year, the boys who played on it gained valuable experience which will make them better players when they advance to the varsity. Enough of sufficient ability played second team ball for Coach Ruby to form a freshman and a sophomore team.

GOLF

Mr. Lindley and Mr. Cleveland have been the co-coaches of the golf team for the past two years, in which time the team has been very successful.

Under the guidance of these men, the boys have captured the Little Four Conference crown, and ranked well in northern Indiana competition.

The boys hope to make this season a perfect one, and they hope to bring home the LaPorte Invitational crown.

GOLF--1945

BOBBY BRANNON—Bobby is one of the four lettermen to return to the team this year. From the boys on the squad he received the nickname of the ladies man. Bob is only a Sophomore and in his last two years he can be counted on for great performances.

BOB CLEVELAND—Bob is the last of the four lettermen to return from last year. He likes to play the game as well as any other sport in which he competes. He'd like to be here to play a few more years but next year is his last.

DICK REILLY—Dick is active in all sports including golf. This year because of an injury Dick was not able to play with the team till the last of the season.

DON COWAN—Don was also active in all sports. Though he did not play at Crown Point his first two years he added a great deal to the golf team in the last two years. Lowell's loss was our gain.

This is my last letter to you,
Jim, because you soon will be coming home. What a perfect ending for the 1945 Yearbook! We began our senior year in war, and we are ending it with our victory in Europe, and complete victory in view in the Pacific.

Our boys are coming home, a few from the prison camps, some wounded, many like yourself flushed with pride in your job well done. He shall welcome you with all the sincere gratitude of which life-long friends and classmates are capable.

To the sacred graves of those boys who put down their first roots in Brown Point High School, we pledge our deep and humble appreciation, and our lives that their sacrifices have not been made in vain.

This is Commencement, - a new life and a bright future waiting for you.

May God bless you and keep you always,

YES, WE STILL HAVE FUN!

UMM—GOOD!
THINK UP A GOOD ONE!
